SHANTUNG TO BE REAL TEST OF CHINA, SAYS GENERAL HO

Future Depends On Way Issue Is Met

WIRES PROVINCES

Shanghai Official Wants Road To Belong To People

The entire future development of China hinges upon her handling of the Shantung Railroad redemption question, declares Ho Feng-ling, Shanghai's military governor, who has sent a circular message to the president, the cabinet and the officials and business men of all the provinces in which he urges that the contribution of funds be made by the Chinese people themselves and not by provinces as has been suggested. The telegram is as follows:

"The most important problem facing China today is the redemption of the Shantung railway. This overshadows all other considerations. The president and the cabinet, recognising the popular opposition among all classes to having this railroad fall into the hands of the government officials have issued the mandate of February 28, announcing that the Shantung R. R. should be a people's railroad and should be purchased and owned by the people.

"It now becomes of paramount importance that the people's money should be safeguarded and should be reserved honestly and that the issue of bonds should be done with scrupulous attention to the rights of the investors. The interest upon these bonds must not be squandered and they must be continually protected. The management of the road must be efficient and clean.

"The contributions from the people should be of two kinds. First that from private investors which will be deposited in designated banks in the given locality. This should be handled locally. Then there should be investments from government institutions, from the police, the clerks, the railroad men, and from public officials of all classes. This money should be collected directly from their salaries and deposited in the designated bank for the redemption of the railroad. According to reports we already have at hand these sources have already shown their willingness to contribute the full $30,000,000.

"My entire staff and office will be placed at the disposal of the funding committee and we shall all do everything in our power to make it a success. I believe that the collection of money from the salaries of the various contributors should begin with this month and should last for ten months."

SECRET ANGLO-U.S. 'UNDERSTANDING' IS HOTLY DENIED

Harding And Senators Denounce Borah's Allegation

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 21.—Denials all round have been made in respect to the alleged statement of a New York lawyer, who on the authority of Senator Borah in the Senate, is supposed to have said that all the American delegates to the Washington Conference had told him that an Anglo-American understanding existed in the event of any case arising under the Four-Power Treaty.

Besides repudiations made by Senators Hughes, Lodge and Underwood, the lawyer himself now declares that he never made the attributed statement. The charge is furthermore emphatically denounced by President Harding, who characterises it as outrageous, and declares that it is inconceivable that the United States would invite Japan to a conference and then be perfidious enough to turn round and make a secret and antagonistic agreement.

GRAVE CHARGES AGAINST OFFICIAL BY GIRLS SCHOOL

War Ministry Councellor Accused Of Robbery And Misconduct At Hangchow

Sensational charges of robbery and misconduct are brought against Wu Ping-yuan, councillor of the Ministry of War of Peking by the Hangchow Girls' School of Physical Culture in a statement issued exclusively yesterday to the China Press.

The messages alleges that Wu, accompanied by a gang of 30 or 40 henchmen raided the school on March 10 and made away with documents, jewelry and cash amounting to $50,000 belonging to the principal of the school, Mrs. Wu Wen-mei.

"On the night of March 10, a man named Wu Ping-yuan, who styles himself as a councillor of the Ministry of War, suddenly appeared in our school with a gang of proteges numbering 30 or 40 and unlawfully imprisoned our principal, Mrs. Wu Wen-mei, as well as the staff and students by intimidating them with pistols.

"The intruders seized all the private property, consisting of documents, cash and jewelry belonging to Mrs. Wu and made away with them. These articles are valued at $50,000.

"However, backed by the imperialism of the Ministry of War, Wu Ping-yuan remained on the premises of the school. After driving away the dean of the school, Mrs. Wu Tung, he attempted to break into the bedroom of a lady teacher named Tsao Feng-yuan on the night of the 18th with malicous intentions.

"Now he is turning his attention to the lady teachers and students and is forcing them to wait on him and his henchmen day and night at meal hours. It is most outrageous that such misconduct and crime are allowed to be perpetrated on a young women's school. How can we seek for educational progress among women, when this brute is allowed to exist?

"We are reluctantly compelled, therefore, to make this nation-wide appeal through your valuable columns for assistance to eliminate this man for the sake of the future of woman education in China."

KIDNAPPING AND MURDER THRIVE ABOUT TSINGTAU

Highway Robbery Flourishes In Territory Where Jap Soldiers Are Stationed

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtau, March 15.—A flourishing industry in this part of Shantung is kidnapping; to this is now added plain highway robbery in Tsimo county, and the most evident blackmail and murder. Women and children are being run into the cities; daily they are coming into Tsingtau. In two counties near here, the populace is so frightened from the kidnappings which have occurred, that all that is necessary for the marauders to do is to write a letter, threatening fire and slaughter unless money is paid, and the terrified families try to send the money.

In addition to the matter reported in last Sunday's correspondence about the robbers' nest on Shoa Kia island, under the protection of the Japanese soldiers stationed there, there has come the report of a foul murder. Recently from Kiaochow county just across the bay an old woman and her son were kidnapped, and carried to Shoa Kia Tao. She protested against mistreatment, and indignantly told the men that they should be ashamed to descend to such vile conduct.

"Do you want your son freed?"

"Yes, I do."

"Come along then and see him get his freedom."

Leading her to the place where the son was held captive, the robbers shot him dead through his head.

Life and property of Chinese citizens in this section are very uncertain; the greatest certainty is that they are likely to have it taken from them. I hear that the leased territory is now being invaded. Is there not a strong hand somewhere to rule this lawless element? It is believed that the Shoa Kia Tao nest could be cleaned out any day if those who control it wished to do so.

OUTLOOK IN ERIN WORSE; MANY FARM HOMES FIRED

Hot Fighting Breaks Out In Trillick District

CONSTABLE SHOT

Intense Bitterness In Dublin And Belfast

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 22.—The situation on the Ulster border is hourly becoming worse. The main scene of operations has suddenly shifted from Derry to the southwest of Tyrone.

Bodies of raiders set fire to numerous farmsteads and attacked the farmers. One special constable was shot. Very hot fighting occurred in the Trillick district, where the police barracks were burnt. Troops arrived, but the incendiaries were so numerous that they were unable to check the outrages.

A complete line of demarcation is now being drawn between the official territories of the North and South.

Troops are assembling on the borders and intense political bitterness prevails both at Dublin and Belfast.

London, March 21.—Fears that the Irish Treaty Bill would be wrecked by the various amendments to it in the Committee stage in the House of Lords were removed by a statement by Lord Lansdowne early in the debate, who said that if it were a choice between the amendments and the Bill, he would urge the abandonment of the amendments when the Bill returns from the House of Commons.

Lord Salisbury in opening the debate, said that he and others who had put down the amendments did not desire to wreck the bill, but wished it to pass in a reasonable form.

Viscount Peel on behalf of the Government announced most definitely that the Government would not accept the amendments.

Lord Lansdowne followed and said that the House of Lords would have done its duty in putting the objections on record.

London, March 21.—With the object of suppressing prevalent lawlessness in Ulster, a bill was read for the second time in the House of Commons today conferring on local civil authorities drastic powers, including flogging, for possession of bombs and firearms and robbery with violence.

Some members complained that the bill was not sufficiently drastic and urged the liability to capital punishment for the possession of bombs.

At question time in the House of Commons today Mr. Winston Churchill admitted that there was serious tension on the Ulster frontier. He said that apparently the raids on the Northern Police barracks had been organised by local members of the Irish Republican Army and that no members of the Free State Forces had participated. Mr. Churchill went on to say that he had telegraphed to the Irish Provisional Government that there was no danger of raid in their territory and that he had instructed General Sir Nevil Macready to assist the Northern Government. He said that the Northern Government had overwhelming forces at its disposal.

In reply to Mr. T. P. O'Connor, Mr. Churchill said that the condition of Belfast was lamentable. He said that there had been more Catholic casualties than Protestant, but he was convinced that the Northern Minister were determined to restore order.

Railroad Experts Arrive In Tsingtau

Peking, March 19.—According to a telegram from Tsinanfu, Messrs. Lu Meng-hsung and Tsung Kun-hua, the Ministry of Communications' experts who were sent to Shantung in connection with the transfer of the Japanese interests there, have arrived at Tsingtao and will shortly be ready to return to Peking and make their report. It is understood that the Japanese authorities have rendered them every assistance in their duties.

All Shanghai To Join In Final Rites Today For Sir Everard Fraser

Funeral Services At Cathedral And Bubbling Well For Late British Consul-General Will Be Most Impressive

The body of Sir Everard Fraser, K.C.M.G., British Consul-General, word of whose death following a heart attack shocked all Shanghai Tuesday morning, will be carried to its last resting place this afternoon.

All nationalities will pay tribute to the late Consul-General at the funeral services to be held at the Holy Trinity Cathedral and at Bubbling Well Cemetery today. Members of the Consular Body, Municipal and Government officials, men of the Navy and the S.V.C. and representatives of many organisations of the city will attend and the funeral procession from the church to the grave side will be one of the most impressive ever seen here.

The first part of the burial service will be conducted at the Cathedral at 4 o'clock by the Very Reverend C. J. F. Symons, Dean. It will include the full choral service and will be conducted according to the Prayer Book—a simple service of most impressive sort. The hymn "For All the Saints," will be the first sung and will be followed by the "Contakion." The Dead March will be played by Mr. R. C. Young, Cathedral organist, and the "De Profundis" will conclude the church ceremonial.

VOLUNTEERS TO ATTEND

Each unit of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps will be represented at the Cathedral and Baden-Powell Boy Scouts—of which organisation Sir Everard was head—and men of the British Navy will also be in attendance. Of the non-British units of the Corps eight members from each company will parade in the Cathedral compound.

A detachment of Sikh troopers and a troop of the Light Horse will escort the coffin, which will be borne on an automobile hearse, from the Cathedral gates to the cemetery, proceeding by Kiangse, Nanking and Bubbling Well Roads. At the gateway of the cemetery the hearse will be met by a party of eight men from the Shanghai Volunteer Corps who will place the coffin upon the truck. The way to the grave side will be lined by British members of the S.V.C. and these, together with a detachment from the Royal Navy will form a hollow square about the grave. Dean Symons will conclude the burial service and the sounding of the "Last Post" will conclude the final rites for the late Senior Consul.

BODY LIES IN STATE

Holy Trinity Cathedral, where Sir Everard's body lies in state, was visited throughout the day yesterday by many members of the British community and by other nationals as well who knelt in silent prayer in the twilit chancel and paused for a moment reverently within the War Memorial Chapel where the coffin, draped with the Union Jack and simply surmounted with a sheaf of lilies and one of sweet peas and violets, rested. Its resting place is singularly appropriate, for Sir Everard was one of the most active in the Chapel's conception and realisation and the names emblazoned upon its walls are those of many with whom he was intimately acquainted and of whom he had spoken in eulogy when they fell during the great war.

Flags at half-mast throughout the Settlement again bore testimony yesterday to the sorrow of the city over the passing of one of its foremost citizens and the closing of many offices and hongs this afternoon will further evidence the esteem in which the late Consul-General was held.

OFFICES TO CLOSE

The Consulates of the various Allied nations will be closed at noon and the Municipal offices will suspend business at 3:45 o'clock. There will be no session of the International Mixed Court this afternoon and many organisations which had contemplated meetings for the day have postponed them out of respect to the deceased official. Among the affairs postponed is the smoker of the Shanghai Football Club, of which Sir Everard was president. The Royal Asiatic Society has adjourned the meeting set for today and the French Club's regular tea dance has been cancelled.

A host of sympathising friends were callers at the British Consulate yesterday to express their grief and sympathy and telegrams of condolence were received from many quarters.

COURT IN TRIBUTE

In the British Supreme Court yesterday morning before a large assembly of attorneys, Judge Peter Grain paid tribute to Sir Everard.

He said: "Mr. Crown Advocate, before we begin the work of the day I desire to refer to the great loss we have sustained by the death of Sir Everard Fraser.

"Sir Everard, as His Majesty's Consul-General in Shanghai, has obtained, I think I might say, the regard, esteem and affection of the whole community. You gentlemen, have known him for a much longer period than I have but in the short time that I had known him it was sufficient for me to regard him with great respect and affection.

"He was a man always at the service of his friends and community, always devoted to duty, always willing to give his time and assistance and advice to all and any of the people.

"He was always patient to listen to any grievance ready to right any wrong and to give relief to all those who needed assistance, and, when he gave, whether it was help, advice or relief, he did not give stintly but with a full hand.

"Gentlemen, I desire on behalf of His Majesty's Judges, to ex-

RATEPAYERS TO DEBATE 3 MAIN ISSUES ON MARCH 30

Wharves, Registration Of Publishers, And Licensing

ANNUAL SESSION

Blow Is To Be Aimed At Brokerage Exchanges

Three major measures—one modifying wharfage dues, one requiring registration of publishers, and one amending a licensing bye-law—are to be put forward as administration measures by the Municipal Council at the forthcoming annual Ratepayers Meeting which will take place at the Town Hall on March 30.

These proposed measures are announced today in the Municipal Gazette. The first is a proposal to amend a section of the Land Regulations so that the limit of the amount that may be collected as wharfage dues may be changed. Under the present provision the amount that may be collected on a shipment may not exceed one-tenth of one percent of the value of the goods. It is proposed to modify this so that the limit that may be collected shall not exceed three percent of the Customs duty.

In the second measure an ancient plan to impose certain restrictions upon newspapers and publishers generally is revived in modified and somewhat milder form. According to the measure being put forward as a proposed bye-law publishers of every kind are required to register with the Municipal Council and, in the case of foreigners, also with their individual Consuls. It is provided also in the proposed bye-law that publishers shall print their names, addresses and occupations on publications issued. The proposed law carries penalties of up to $300 fine and three months imprisonment for violations.

The third proposal is designed to place a check on stock and brokerage exchanges through the medium of the licensing bye-law.

THREE PROPOSALS

Resolutions I and II.—Formal business.

Resolution III.—That Land Regulation IX in so far as it refers to the collection of Wharfage Dues and which at present reads:

"And it shall also be competent to the said meeting or a majority thereof as aforesaid, to impose other rates and taxes in the form of dues on all goods passed through the Chinese Custom-house by any person or persons resident within the said limits, or landed, shipped or transhipped at any place within

BOATS CRASH IN RIVER, ONE SINKS; INQUIRY STARTS TODAY

Sakaki Maru Goes Down In 16 Feet Of Water

IS MAIL LINER

The Freighter "Eastern Sailor" Also Is Damaged

After a crash with a trans-Pacific freight steamer in the heavy morning mist on the Whangpoo the crack Japanese passenger liner Sakaki Maru, built some years ago largely from thousands of donations of Japanese school children and one of the fastest mail liners coming to Shanghai, is sunk in sixteen feet of water not far from the Wayside wharf whence it set sail yesterday morning. It is stated that the wreck will not impede traffic in the river and work of making repairs is to be begun at once.

An inquiry is being opened by the port authorities today in connection with the collision which took place when the freighter Eastern Sailor just arriving in Shanghai from Portland, Oregon, and the Sakaki Maru lurched together in the dense fog. The Eastern Sailor was not seriously damaged, but the Japanese vessel which had aboard 66 passengers and cargo for northern Chinese ports, principally Tsingtao and Dairen was badly crushed.

TRY TO BEACH SHIP

Immediately after the accident efforts were made to beach the Sakaki Maru and these virtually were successful as the vessel which draws some 25 feet, was brought into comparatively shallow water where it rests with its upper works well above the surface.

The China Pacific Company, 6 Kiukiang Road is agent here for the Eastern Sailor and the vessel is a newly completed boat operated by the South Manchuria Railway Company.

Exact causes of the accident have not been disclosed but it is accepted that it was due largely to the early morning fog and mist on the river. The Sakaki Maru left her moorings at the company's wharf at Wayside about 8 o'clock. All the passengers had been taken aboard by tender the preceding night. The Eastern Sailor was proceeding upstream and the collision took place at a point between No. 4 and No. 5 Buoys opposite Kajow Creek.

PASSENGERS RESCUED

After the accident the Eastern Sailor was able to proceed on to her moorings at the China Merchants Central wharf. Help was immediately summoned from Shanghai for the Sakaki Maru which was badly stove in forward and was taking water in her forward holds. A steam launch of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha went to the vessel's aid and took aboard all of the passengers who were brought back to Shanghai. Through the day yesterday measures were taken to save as much of the damaged ship's cargo as possible. It will have to go in drydock to undergo extensive repairs before it can again be placed in commission.

Included in the 66 passengers on the Sakaki Maru were 26 Europeans. Cabin passengers bound for Tsingtau, Dairen and other northern centers numbered twenty-two. Among the first class passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Pickersgill, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and two infants, Mrs. E. Storkova, and Messrs. E. A. Jenkinson, J. Robertson, F. E. Hamel, J. A. Dyer, C. Dewing, A. Pisareosky, J. Lindstrom and J. W. Anderson, bound for Dairen. Mrs. A. W. Allen and infant, Miss M. Cole and Mr. H. Schulze were among the cabin passengers for Tsingtau. Mr. J. R. Budnikoff and Mr. and Mrs. A. Parovitsch were second class passengers for Dairen. Mr. and Mrs. Holdworth booked passage for Newchwang and were travelling as first-class passengers. One Russian named V. A. Maxinroff was among the third-class passengers for Tsingtau.

Health Department Issues Warning Against Measles

How To Avoid Disease, Particularly Dangerous To Children, Set Forth In Detail

Following the recent epidemic of small pox which now has been checked the February report of the Health Department, issued by Dr. C. Noel Davis, Acting Commissioner, sounds a warning against measles which have become prevalent in the International Settlement.

Illustrating the decrease in number of cases of small pox the report states that in February only one foreigner and 56 Chinese died from the disease compared with 8 and 150 for the month of January. The campaign of vaccination was continued with unabated vigor through February, 2,879 persons being treated at public stations.

Illustrating how measles have developed in the Settlement, the report says that while no foreigners succumbed in February, 30 Chinese died from the disease and in the week ending March 19 eight Chinese died and one case in the foreign community was reported.

The report goes exhaustively into the appearance of measles here and in particular sets forth suggestions of how the disease, which is particularly dangerous to children, may be avoided. This portion of the report is as follows:

"Measles was very prevalent throughout the community. Measles, together with small-pox, chicken-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, influenza, pneumonia, whooping cough and other diseases, is one of the acute respiratory infections, and, with small-pox, the most readily communicable of all.

HOW IT SPREADS

"The way it is spread is by the minute infected droplets many sprayed from throat or nose in coughing, sneezing, laughing or shouting. It is a serious disease, but fortunately the majority of cases get well. It is most dangerous to young children under five years of age. Half the number of cases, but 95 percent of all the deaths, occur among children of this age—usually from complications as pneumonia, empyema and tuberculosis.

"It is of vital importance to protect children most carefully until the dangerous period is passed. Measles has been described as a stumbling-block in preventive medicine because of its intense infectiousness, not only after the characteristic rash appears, and the nature of the illness is recognised, but also for several days before when it is not obvious what is really the matter, and the patient may be thought to be suffering from just a 'little cold in the head.' These 'little colds in the head' are often the first symptoms of serious illness, and should never be treated lightly.

"Fortunately in measles there are special signs known to doctors, and first observed and described by the distinguished American physician Dr. Henry Koplik. They are known as "Koplik's spots" and appear on the mucous membrane of the cheeks and lips several days before the rash. From these signs the doctor is able to say with fair certainty that the patient is in for an attack of measles.

"One attack usually protects against a second, but as many as three or four may occur in the same person. The disease occurs more often in children because they are more often exposed to infection.

"Prevention is largely in the hands of the public themselves. In the present state of our knowledge it depends almost entirely on one measure—isolation; but this should be carried out before the rash appears, hence the importance of early diagnosis. The disease is usually spread directly from person to person; sometimes, but not often, indirectly, by a third person or by articles contaminated with the infected secretions from throat or nose.

RULES TO OBSERVE

"Measles and other acute respiratory diseases in children may be largely prevented by observance of the following simple rules:

"(a) Do not allow children to come in contact with persons suffering from a 'cold'; or to be kissed near the mouth by anyone, no matter how closely related.

"(b) Children who have fever with infected eyes, running nose, coughing or sneezing should be isolated in a room by themselves.

"(c) No child with such symptoms should be allowed under any circumstances to go to school, or to parties or to play with other children.

"(d) Do not allow children to put into their mouths pencils, whistles, toys or any articles which have been handled by others.

"(e) All handkerchiefs, bedclothes, towels and other materials that have been contaminated with secretions from throat or nose of sick persons, should be boiled or otherwise disinfected.

"(f) The mother or other person who nurses a sick child should avoid other children. Every sick person should have separate cups, dishes and other utensils, and these should be carefully washed in boiling water before being used by others.

"(g) Dogs, cats and other pets should be kept out of the sick room: they may carry the germs of disease.

"Above all no child suffering from measles should get up from bed till free from fever, and allowed to do so by the doctor. This is of great importance in preventing pneumonia and other complications: Measles lowers resistance especially to tuberculosis, and therefore needs skilled nursing and prolonged care during convalescence."

Armored Trams Travel Over Line Daily, Says Tuchun

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 19.—A determined effort on the part of the Chinese Eastern Railway Guards, according to a statement issued by Tuchun Sun of Kirin to the Ministry of Communications, has done much to secure the safety and protection of the Chinese Eastern Railway in recent months against raids by Hunghutze. The railway is now guarded by patrols and armored trains which travel regularly along the lines, while the wooded concessions are protected by a special force recruited and trained for the purpose.

The worst Hunghutze infested sections, the statement continues are between Harbin and Pogranichnia and between Harbin and Changchun. For the purpose of securing unity of action, the commands of these two sections have, as the result of the military conference held in Harbin last December, been amalgamated. Since then the line has been regularly patrolled by four military trains, consisting of a car equipped with machine guns, one second class car and twenty troop cars, in addition to two armored trains. Along the line between Harbin and Manchuli similar units have been organised for periodical patrols to meet any emergency that might arise. Supplementing these forces are small units that are sent regularly from each military post to patrol the line under its charge.

Efforts to rid the concessions of bad characters have taken the form of securing guarantees from groups of ten families, each family being guaranteed by the other nine. Thus if a member of any one of these families is found to be a Hunghutze the others are held responsible.

In the more important concessions there are special forces backed by regular troops. Since this system has been inaugurated no losses by fires lit by Hunghutze have been reported.

The statement on conclusion says that the Military Authorities are taking strict measures to prevent military interference with the railway and to stop soldiers from riding on the trains without passes. A set of rules and regulations is being drafted to govern the requisitioning trains or cars for military use. Those will be rigidly enforced when adopted.

Found a Cure for Indigestion.

"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to, now," writes George W. Emory, Dock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no pepsin but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally.

Delhi Assembly Rejects Cotton Tax

(Reuter's Service)

Delhi, Mar. 21.—The Legislative Assembly has rejected the proposed increase of cotton excise duty by 55 votes to 38, thus rendering still more unpalatable to Lancashire the rise in import duties from 11 to 15 percent.

Subsequent to rejecting the proposal the Assembly also declined to adopt the companion proposal, to raise the existing cotton duty from 11 to 15 percent by 68 votes to 30.

This double defeat of the Government's plans means a loss of 341 Lakhs on the budget proposals relating to cotton alone.

Peshawar, March 21.—In consequence of the violent intimidation of Government servants and supporters on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' visit and the subsequent mobbing of the income tax staff, several arrests have been made with a view to ending lawlessness.

Lydia Lipkowska

Shanghai, rarely treated to opera, last night heard Lydia Lipkowska, late of the Chicago Opera Company, one of the world's greatest prima donnas. She sang at the Olympic Theater.

Madame Lipkowska sang with marvelous understanding of the music she was interpreting; sang with all her mind and heart, while an appreciative audience sat breathless.

Her program was far different from the one announced and one which was better in many ways to allow her range and scope. Few had heard as much of her as they knew of Mischa Elman—or even Sklarevski, for that matter, for this brilliant artist, too, had been in Shanghai.

Madame Lipkowska sang numbers of widely different character and style. She sang in Russian, French, Italian and English, with equal facility and perfect enunciation. And every number was greeted by an outburst of enthusiasm which was rewarded with encores.

With Madame Lipkowska was Alexander Sklarevski, the brilliant pianist who played here 18 months ago and who has since toured America and Europe.

He opened with the Bach-Liszt Fantaisac and double fugue, instead of the Glazanouv composition which was announced. He was hampered by the late arrivals, who were responsible for the first part of the work being lost to those who arrived at the theater on time.

Madame Lipkowska's program started with the Cavatina and Rondo by Glinka, in which she first demonstrated the remarkable range of the wonderful voice. Then came the well known "Ah! Non Credea Mirarti" and the dainty "Violette." Her first suite closed with the dashing "Sevilliana," of Massenet. For an encore she sang Delibes' Spanish Song, and gratified the audience with a second encore, this time Chopin's Mazurka, the "laughing" number.

The famous soprano's versatility was further revealed in a Negro cradle song, by Clutsam the only number she sang in English. Tschaikowsky's "If I Only Knew," sung in Russian, followed and the suite closed with the bell song from Lakme, another number which demonstrated the art and technique of the singer.

When the audience applauded, Madame Lipkowska replied with a Tosti composition. When they became even more enthusiastic she delighted with the wonderful waltz song from Romeo and Juliet.

Lipkowska and Sklarevski have added another to the successes of Manager Strok, who is responsible for bringing several world artists to the Far East, and Shanghai again demonstrated that it will support the efforts of the man who believes that the Far East delights in hearing great world artistes.

CHINESE ENVOY AT PARIS TARGET OF STUDENT 'RED'

Four Bullets Fired By Follower Of Lenin

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, March 21.—A Chinese student named Lee Ho-ling last night fired four revolver shots at a motor car in which were Mr. Chen Lu, the Chinese Minister, and his wife, and wounded Mr. Stan Gou, an engineer who was accompanying the Minister, in the head.

Interrogated by the police, Lee Ho-ling denounced the Minister whom he declared to be responsible for the expulsion of 150 destitute Chinese students at Lyons.

Photographs of Lenin and Trotsky were discovered amongst Lee Ho-ling's belongings and also other indications of Bolshevik leanings. Lee Ho-ling was secretary to Mlle. Chen, who was entertaining the Chinese Minister on the occasion of her birthday.

Mr. Stan Gou is the Chinese delegate to the International Transport Conference to be held in Rome. His condition is not serious.

The Minister and his wife were returning from a dinner party at the house of some Chinese friends and had hardly started when the shots were fired. The Minister stopped the car and ordered the chauffeur to take it back.

Then, with the Chinese Consul General, who had also been to the dinner party, he had the wounded man conveyed to hospital, before returning home in another car. Mr. Stan Gou was taken home after the bullet had been extracted.

The assailant immediately surrendered and stated that he had fired at the Minister because he "showed little regard for Chinese residents in Paris."

HONGKONG GIRL SLAVE TRAFFIC TO END IN YEAR

Churchill Tells Commons Of Crown Colony's Plan

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 21.—In the House of Commons today, replying to a question, Mr. Winston Churchill announced that the Governor of Hongkong has reported that his government, in consultation with the Society for the Protection and Abolition of Mui-tsais (slave girls) would draw up a scheme for the abolition of the system.

This would take time and in the meantime Mr. Churchill had directed the issue of a proclamation stating that the status of the mui-tsai as existing in China would not be recognised in Hongkong in future. Particularly, no compulsion of girls of over 12 years of age to leave their homes would be allowed.

The Governor had pointed out that this would involve the risk of girls being exposed to the wiles of unscrupulous employers. Mr. Churchill consequently directed that the mui-tsais should be warned that until protection could be afforded them they should not leave their homes except in the case of ill treatment.

He added that though obviously such an old-established custom could not be altered at a moment's notice, the Governor and he were determined to terminate the system as early as possible and he had intimated to the Governor of Hongkong that he expected the change to be carried out within a year.

CHINESE DEMAND DISSOLUTION OF TECHNICAL BOARD

Harbin Maintains Inter-Allied Body Encroaches Upon China's Sovereignty

Alleging that the Inter-allied Technical Board of the Chinese Eastern Railway constitutes an encroachment upon the sovereign rights of China, Chinese in Harbin have filed a memorandum with the Peking Cabinet, demanding the abolition of the body and the dismissal of the American representative, Mr. W. F. Stevens, according to the China Evening Post.

The manifesto stated that the proposed expansion of the Inter-allied Technical Board amounts to the International Control of the Chinese Eastern Railway, for which a resolution was introduced but defeated at the Disarmament Conference in Washington. The present attempt, said the message, is in direct violation of the four Root principles adopted by the Conference, which undertook to respect the sovereignty, independence and territorial and administrative integrity of China.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

The efforts of military leaders to secure large supplies of rice for the threatened Spring campaigns are seen by local rice merchants as a grave peril for the local market. At a meeting of the Rice Shopkeepers' Guild held Tuesday ways and means to meet the situation were discussed and it was decided to request the authorities to take further steps toward preventing rice smuggling. They will also ask that the embargo against the exportation of rice from the Lih Yang Hsien district be lifted.

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HAPBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. East China Basket Title Threatens Three-Team Tie

The East China Intercollegiate basketball title threatens to end up in a three-cornered tie, as did the soccer football title this fall. Soochow, Shanghai and St. John's university, if all probable form holds good for remaining matches, will rank at the end of the season tied for first honors.

The league now stands:

	Won	Lost	Pctg.
Soochow	4	0	1,000
Shanghai	3	1	750
St. Johns	2	1	666
Nanyang	2	1	666
Nanking	0	4	000
S. E. U.	0	4	000

Should the dope carry through as expected the teams will finish as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pctg.
Soochow	4	1	800
Shanghai	4	1	800
St. Johns	4	1	800
Nanyang	2	3	400
Nanking	0	4	000
S. E. U.	0	4	000

The key to the whole basketball title for East China schools rests on the game between Soochow and St. Johns at the latters' Floor on Saturday. Should Soochow win they will be the undisputed champion of the season; should they lose they have an excellent prospect of finishing tied with Shanghai Baptist college and St. Johns for the title.

Aside from the game mentioned, Nanyang is scheduled for Saturday against the Shanghai College, on Saturday and against St. Johns on Wednesday. According to impartial dopesters on the inside of the intercollegiate basketball tourney, they are doomed for defeat in both events, and the basketball title will finished up with three teams tied for the champion's place, as in the recent soccer football finish. It is expected however, that should a tie result at the end of play that a play-off will be had, and some definite decision reached as to who is really who in basketball among Chinese Colleges in East China.

The Shanghai Baptist College beat St. Johns last night in a fast game, said by Referee Irle, the Foreign League star, to be the best yet played on local floors. The score at half time was Shanghai 17, St. Johns 11. At the end of time the count was Shanghai 33, St. Johns 23. The game saw the meeting of two champion teams, St. Johns being last year's title winner, and Shanghai the best five of two years ago.

The summary of the match follows:

Shanghai 33—S. M. Pau lf, D. T. Su rf, D. S. Feng c, F. C. Hwang lg, C. T. Bao rg.

St. Johns 23—S. J. Ling lf, L. K. Oo rf, C. D. Zung c, T. T. Mo lg, F. S. Tsang rg.

Substitutions—T. T. Tsu for S. J. Ling. Goals from floor—Pau 3, Su 7, Feng 4, Hwang 1, Ling 4, Tsu 2, Oo 1, Zung 1, Tsang 1. Goals from fouls—Pau 2, Feng 1, Tsu 2, Oo 3. Referee—Mr. Irle. Timer—Mr. T. T. Zee. Scorer—Mr. York.

The three leading teams thus far have performed as follows:

Soochow has beaten Shanghai College, Nanyang, Nanking and the Southeastern University.

St. Johns has beaten Nanking and the S. E. U. and lost to Shanghai College.

Shanghai has beaten Nanking, St. Johns and the Southeastern University, and lost to Soochow.

English Girl Hockeyists Bring Mascots To Games

NOT that they are the least bit superstitious, but girl athletes of England have a hobby of bringing their mascots and pets to all their contests. At a recent field hockey match between the girls of Cheshire and Derbyshire Miss Dabman, goalkeeper of the former team, had "Tabby," the team's mascot, with her throughout the contest. It was a good omen.

Am'n Nine Wins Over Canton Team

The Chinese baseball team was swamped by the American team at Canton by a score of 16-0 in their annual early season game at the East Garden Ground.

Commissioner Woo Fei, Chief of the Department of Public Safety, Canton Municipality, started the game by throwing the first ball.

Without the support of their shortstop Chiu who was on the sick list, Captain Panhoe seemed to lose confidence, allowing seven walks and 20 hits of which two were homers. The conditions were made worse by a poor outfielding and by a green player on third.

Proseus fanned eight men. Meiske was the best in field work, while Peabody was the heaviest batter of the day making three singles and two home runs. Meiskie, Proseus and Tong followed the lead getting three hits each.

The line-up of both teams were as follows:

CHINESE	POSITION	AMERICAN
Fong	Catcher	Refo
Shim	Short-stop	Jones
Panboe	Pitcher	Proseus
Chang	1st base	Meiskie
Seeto	Center Field	Peabody
Loo	Left Field	Lyons

Japanese Nines Play At Tientsin

Tientsin, March 20.—With half the Gobi desert blowing across the diamond four Japanese baseball teams attempted to settle the baseball supremacy of Tientsin yesterday with fifty percent success.

The first game, between the Japanese "Army" and the Japanese Primary School was won by the latter by a score of 14 to 4 after battling through a dust storm that obliterated the players half the time. The second game, between the Mitsui team and the Japanese Stock Exchange, ended when the third man up in the first inning was completely covered in a swirl of dust that made play impossible. About 2000 people were out for the games.

Scottowe Cup Final Has Two Outside Teams Opposed

Club "B" And School XI's Not Figured Beforehand To Play For Trophy

The final for the Scottowe Football Cup, which will be played off on Saturday between the Shanghai Public School and the Football Club "B" will furnish one of the best football matches of the season. Arrangements are already consummated for the match. The football enthusiasts of Shanghai are waiting impatiently for the game.

The School, essentially a second division team first surprised the local talent by their win over the Engineers, holders of second place in the first division, in the first round, by a score of 3-1. They repeated in the second round by a win over the Recs, after the latter eleven had barely qualified in a replay against the Xaviers. They won to the final in spite of Shanghai's wisest dopesters.

The Club "B" team enters the final stage for the coveted cup with the distinction of having bested in a round-about way the senior eleven of their organisation. In the first round of the play the Police beat the "A" team by the decisive score of 4-0, while the "B" team won out over the Customs at 4-1. The second round found the "B" team beating the Police 3-1. They not only upset their own end of the football dope, but went to the final against another team not figured beforehand to play off for the honors.

The game Saturday will be played on the Police ground. It will have the center of football interest. The players will meet on the field at 2:45 p.m. for photos. Play will commence at three.

Souvenir programs will be sold at the game and a collection will be taken on the rounds in aid of the King's Daughters' Society.

Mr. N. B. Ramsay has presented a special Stadium ball, such as is used in the English Cup finals to be used in the game. Mr. Gabbutt will referee. Messrs. H. F. Marshall and C. W. Hampson will act as linesmen.

Mrs. John Prentice will present the cup to the winner at the conclusion of the game.

PRINCE OF WALES ROYALLY GREETED ON CEYLON TRIP

Colombo Crowds Shout Welcome To Young Visitor

(Reuter's Service)

Colombo, March 22.—Ceylon is magnificently fulfilling a long-cherished resolve to show the great Indian peninsular her own conception of a Royal welcome. This is the outstanding fact which emerges almost as an obsession from Colombo's crowded round of gaiety. She cannot compete with the grandeur and pomp of Indian hospitality but by the very reason of its comparative simplicity the warmth of her reception of the Prince of Wales is more accentuated.

The people themselves have risen en masse in positive jubilation of welcome and their warmth needs no emphasis of Oriental pageantry. One felt this particularly at the presentation of colors to the Ceylon Light Infantry this morning. Judged by the standard of military spectacle throughout the tour it was a very minor affair. But every available foot of space between the Queen's House and Echelon Barracks was packed with smiling and cheering humanity so that the parade itself became a mere detail in the much more important business of seeing the Prince.

In fact the parade was rather disappointing, the usual ceremony being very much curtailed. The occasion was interesting as it is said to be the first presentation of colors in the history of the island.

The Prince afterwards inspected other troops on the ground and a large body of ex-service men. His Royal Highness visited the regimental mess before returning to the Queen's House In the afternoon the Prince played polo. This evening he will attend a small dance given by the Governor.

Colombo is still exuberantly en fete.

Colombo, March 21.—Colombo gave the Prince of Wales a magnificent reception this morning. The Renown arrived in harbor just before sunrise, being berthed amid a large surrounding fleet of shipping dressed in rainbow fashion to the salutes of the flagship Southampton and the French cruiser Bellatrix.

The shining city looked vivid in the fresh morning air, humming with lilliputian echoes of teeming life ashore. At nine o'clock Admiral Clinton-Baker went on board, followed ten minutes later by the Governor, who was rowed out in a most picturesque barge.

At ten o'clock His Royal Highness left the Renown in his blue and silver pinnace, which steamed through a lane of gaily decorated harbor lighters moored stem to stern and crowded with cheering coolies.

The Prince landed at the lower jetty which was transformed into a vast carpeted bower by the lavish decorations. After inspecting a naval guard of honor and a company of the Ceylon Light Infantry the Prince proceeded to a dais where he received addresses from the Legislative Council, the Colombo Municipal Council, the Chief of the Headman's Union, the Chamber of Commerce, the Low Country Products Associations and the European Association of Ceylon.

His Royal Highness replied briefly and collectively. He referred to the visit of King Edward in 1875 to lay the first stone of the great breakwater and Colombo's intimate association with the Navy and paid a special tribute to the devoted loyalty of the island.

A procession was then formed, the Prince motoring through and around Colombo, passing more than seven miles of most enthusiastic crowds ranged in orderly array. It being a general gala day for the entire island the people had flocked in shoals from afar to see the Prince. A striking feature was the assemblance of healthy-looking school-children waving flags and cheering and clapping with a tremendous zest.

The route was lined by police, auxiliaries, scouts, guides and Lascarine Guards and was simply but most effectively decorated. Of course, nature, bountiful in tropical foliage, provided a gorgeous setting, with frequent glimpses of violet ocean betwixt clustering palm groves. Still the Cingalese made a fine display of pandals arches, pylons, streamers and flags, all blending into a riotous bas relief of color against their gaudy costumes.

Chalmers Granery had been transformed into a long wide colonnade of green and red splendor, with wicker shamianos wherein sat the principal Indian families associated with the rice industry.

One loyal enthusiast had brought five elephants down to his compound, and while these animals which were of a height seldom seen in Colombo, salaamed the Prince with their trunks the party showered him with confetti. The Prince's progress on one was sustained by a roar of greeting, punctuated with the singing of the school-children.

Again and again the royal car was obliged to stop to enable His Royal Highness to receive bouquets. The reception from start to finish was one magnificent furore of royal welcome. Colombo, crowded to suffocation, is keeping holiday in a most joyous spirit.

Nothing like today's scenes have yet been witnessed during the present tour, even the enthusiasm of Burma being eclipsed. At the end of the ceremonial drive, the Prince alighted at the Queen's House, where he is staying.

In the afternoon, His Royal Highness attended a garden-party in the beautiful grounds surrounding the house and then a dinner-party given by the Governor in the evening.

Colombo is gorgeously illuminated, the ships in harbor contributing a great blaze of splendor to the scene.

To Call It "Used" Usually Means It's a "Good" Car

That a car has been driven a goodly number of miles speaks well for the car.
Many such cars can be found in Shanghai today and can be bought for low prices.
Most of them—the best ones, at any rate—are generally advertised in the "Used Car" Columns of The China Press. If you want a car at a bargain, turn to the Want Ads. Read them now—and see how little it will cost to own your own auto.

LLOYD GEORGE TO ASK COMMONS TO VOTE ON GENOA

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 21.—In the House of Commons today at question time, Mr. Austen Chamberlain announced that the Genoa Conference would be held on April 10 and as arranged, Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Curzon and Sir Robert Horne would represent Great Britain.

He added that Mr. Lloyd George would return to the House of Commons on April 3, and would immediately take the opinion of the House on the Government's policy at Genoa. The Government's motion in that connection, Mr. Chamberlain said, would clearly raise the question of confidence. It would be impossible to ask Mr. Lloyd George to go to Genoa if there was any doubt about his authority.

London, March 21.—While Mr. Lloyd George is resting in Wales a controversy has been raging in the London Press on the subject of his intentions in view of the growing evidence of the Conservative party's dissatisfaction with his leadership.

The assertions that he will shortly resign are confuted by the announcement made today that the Government will submit a motion to the House of Commons in support of the Genoa Conference early in April when the Prime Minister will expound the Government's policy on the eve of his departure for Genoa.

This is regarded as equivalent to asking the House of Commons for a vote of confidence in the Prime Minister.

Turkey's Terms For Near East Peace

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, March 16.—It is reported from London that Tset Pasha, head of the Constantinople Turkish delegation, has stated to the correspondent of the Evening News that he arrived at London to present to the British Government the following conditions "indispensable for the possible attacks especially from existence of Turkey."

1. Turkey must keep Constantinople, Adrianople and Thrace to the Mariza River;

2. The Dardanelles to remain open and unfortified but Turkey must receive guarantees against Greece;

3. Turkey must maintain the control over the whole of Anatolia, and the Greeks must evacuate Smyrna.

Kemal Bey, who represents the Angora Government, says the Daily Telegraph, at present pursues one and the same object with the Russian diplomats, that of getting a hearing at the Genoa Conference. If Kemal Bey fails in his attempt to secure an official invitation, he will proceed to Genoa in the hope that at the conference itself he will have a chance to defend the interests of Turkey.

HAT AUCTION

An auction of women's hats, 28 creations by American milliners, brought $2,600 at the close of the spring fashion show of the Retail Milliners Association of America in New York.

Bidding was most spirited and for a time it looked as though all of the designs would go to Detroit. A firm from that city had raised the price to $2,500 when a New York company topped it by $100, and took the entire lot, while 2,000 diners at the Hotel Astor applauded the sale.

Hoover Favors Pact Ratification

(Reuter's Service)

Los Angeles, March 21.—In a speech here today Mr. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, declared that the opponents of the Pacific Treaty stood accused of "shaking a bloody shirt" to find the hidden meaning of the terrible subversion of American rights in the Treaty.

Proceeding, he praised the Treaty for eliminating causes of friction between nations and for permitting America to reduce the tremendous cost of her Naval armaments, while still maintaining complete America's defense in any possible eventuality. He declared that the opponents of the Treaty were a few who preferred measures of force to measures of goodwill.

After outlining the achievements of the Conference, like the settlement of the Japanese-American points of friction and the adjustment of the major Sino-Japanese differences, Mr. Hoover concluded by saying that this was the first precise and substantial contribution in history to the problem of disarmament.

Soviet May Pay Debts With Bonds

(Reuter's Service)

A Man's A Man, Even If He Is A Preacher

Which is stronger—a man's religion or his love? We are inclined to believe that when that crack shot, little Dan Cupid, sends a love arrow into the heart of a preacher, said preacher behaves very much like any other man in love. Can a preacher be jealous? What about his Christian charity? Well, charity is said to cover a multitude of sins, but it isn't on record in the good book or elsewhere that the multitude includes stealing another man's girl. Suppose you were the preacher, and a slick city guy stole your girl. Would you hate him? Would you by jealous?

Dr. Schurman On Philippine Independence

(Manila Times, March 8)

DR. Jacob Gould Schurman, American Minister to China, at present on a short visit here, delivered a most notable address last night on the subject of Philippine independence.

There is some justification for the belief that Dr. Schurman speaks more or less officially as expressing the general attitude of the Administration. At least, the Minister would have hesitated to express views he knew were contrary to those held at Washington.

Dr. Schurman gave full credit to the "practical American statesmanship" as distinguished from the merely theoretical and idealistic attitude of a certain section of American opinion. But, he said, between the imperialists and anti-imperialists stands the American people, who will settle the Philippine question in the American way.

No nation, said Dr. Schurman, in the exercise of its sovereignty over a dependency has ever followed so persistently and conscientiously a policy of altrustic helpfulness, of deliberate training and education, and devolved so rapidly upon its wards such numerous and important functions of government.

As did Vice-Governor Yeater, Dr. Schurman "recognises" the Preamble of the Jones Law, "The goal of independence, latent in the American policy from the beginning, has been formally and solemnly promised and announced by Act of Congress, approved by the President of the United States, and I think I may add without fear of contradiction, this has been ratified and confirmed by the conscience and judgment of the overwhelming majority of the American people."

"It is therefore obvious," said the Minister, "that in view of the legal practical status of the matter, Philippine independence is now simply a question of time."

"But," he continued, "the selection of the right time is a matter of transcendant importance.

"Had the Philippines been granted independence at any time during the last quarter of a century, the Philippine Republic would have been engulfed in the irresistible tide of rival imperialisms and competing economic interests, and submerged as completely and as hopelessly as other independent nations have been submerged in the tumultous and devastating upheavals of the last twenty years.

"The most priceless and fundamental of all American achievements has been the protection of the Philippines from conquest by any militaristic power during a period of lawless expansion of nations, and the preservation, under the aegis of American liberty and democracy, of the promise and potentiality of a future free and independent Philippine Republic."

Dr. Schurman does not see how it is possible for Philippine statesmanship to rest on the Washington engagements (the Pacific Treaty, etc.,) until they have been tested by time and converted into permanent obligations and politics, for these engagements are unfortunately only tentative and their duration is limited to ten years—although he admits that the results of the Washington Conference are pregnant with hope, and that it has contributed more to the security of the future Philippine Republic than anything that has ever before occurred.

Dr. Schurman therefore advises the Filipinos in most serious language not to force the issue, but to be content for the moment with what they have gained, and in preparation for final independence organise their resources for defense, as Governor General Wood himself has already advised them to do.

Throughout the address he mentioned "independence" and "the future Philippine Republic" many times. Only near the end did he introduce a clause which holds out some comfort for those who hope that the relations between the United States and the Philippines may never be completely severed. If, at the time the Philippines are ready for independence, "the majority of Filipinos should clearly and unequivocally desire it, America would, in conformity with the policy solemnly enacted by Congress authorise the withdrawal of naval and military forces from the Islands, the transfer of American sovereignty to Filipinos, and the recognition—the proud and affectionate recognition—of the Philippine Republic by the United States, its faithful and beneficent foster mother."

Some of our Filipino contemporaries have manifested disappointment with the speech. Yet, if the speech may be considered in any sense official or semi-official, we have an explanation of the Administration's reasons for declining to entertain any plans or suggestions leading to the establishment here of any kind of "territorial government." The speech should therefore prove far more disappointing to the permanent retentionists than to the independistas.

It is becoming more obvious that no anti-independence propaganda will have the slightest effect in Washington. Those who desire continued relations of some sort between the United States and the Philippines will have to persuade the Filipinos.

So far as this very able and clear-cut address is concerned, we believe certain Filipino editors had better express gratitude for its kindly, sincere and wise counsel than to express disappointment because Dr. Schurman did not live up to the absurd expectation that he would join the party politicians in their reckless cry for "immediate, complete and absolute independence."

Stevenson Cried Over Charles Dickens' Tale

The autograph letter of Robert Louis Stevenson, for which William R. Hearst paid $1,150 at the sale of the Charles Dickens material owned by the late Dr. R. T. Jupp of London, England, at the Anderson Galleries recently, was written at Bournemouth. It is undated and its seven pages are in diary form. It begins:

"I wonder if you ever read Dickens's Christmas Books? I don't know that I would recommend you to read them, because they are too much, perhaps. I have only read two of them yet, and I have cried my eyes out, and have a terrible fight not to sob, But, O, dear God, they are good—and I feel so good after them, and would do anything, yes, and shall do everything to make it a little better for people.

"I wish I could lose no time; I want to go out and comfort some one. I shall never listen to the nonsense they tell me about not giving money. I shall give money; not that I haven't done so always, but I shall do it with a high hand now. Oh, what a jolly thing it is for a man to have written books like these books, and just filled people's hearts with pity.

"It is raining here; and I have been working at John Knox. and at the horrid story I have in hand, and walking to the rain. Do you know this story of mine is horrible? I only work at it by fits and starts, because I feel as if it were a sort of crime against humanity—it is so cruel."

Stevenson was at Bournemouth about 1882. His "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" appeared in 1886.

Charles Dickens's raven named Grip, stuffed and mounted in a glass case, brought $210. A letter describing the bird's death went for $385. A letter to William C. Macready, the actor, about the dedication of his "Nicholas Nickleby" went for $480. A writing case, given to Dickens by Georgine Hogarth in 1855, brought $450.

"The Friendly Arctic," A Land Misunderstood

BY SAMUEL ABBOTT

We've had a chat with Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the author of that new and remarkable book, "The Friendly Arctic." When we sat down to quiz him we were fortified by all we had read about Hudson, Davis, Franklin, Kane, Nansen, Peary and the remainder of the heroic band that dared the bergs, the floes and the unrelenting cloud of the Arctic night. Had this quiet, possessed fellow before us anything to say that would throw into disorder any of our beliefs and theories? The keynote to Stefansson's revolutionary remarks—they were nothing short of that—came out at once in a sweeping statement; man not only can live the year round within the Arctic Circle—he can secure the means for his own sustenance there. It doesn't do to fix and stare at a chap when he comes out with something so topsy-turvy as that. So we consulted with Stefansson. You'll find the substance of what he said, with very much more, in his book, wherein a group of old notions is brushed aside with the nonchalant gesture of one who knows.

The dread of the North has been diminishing in its vigor. The earliest navigators, of the type of Davis and Hudson, searchers for a northwest or northeast passage, believed that men reared in the climate of England could not survive a polar winter. Stefansson graphically describes the explorers of a second class that followed on the heels of the first. Edward Parry is typical of the group.

"The polar winter was still dreadful, but a few men were found of such stern stuff that they were willing to brave its terrors. The battle with frost and storm at that time was a form of trench warfare. The hardy navigator penetrated as far north as might be by ship and then, figuratively speaking, dug himself in and waited for winter to pass, coming out of his hibernation in the spring."

Peary represents the third step in polar exploration. His stride was a much longer one than any taken by his predecessors, for he "saw that the cold should not be avoided but courted, and that the most successful journeys could be made in winter, beginning in January or February, and should come to an end on any properly managed expedition by April, before the first thaw." His attitude was wholly a mental one, inspired by a defiance of the North and a determination to utilise what it had to offer in the way of making winter a period for work, and not for rest.

THE CONQUEST OF COLD

And now Stefansson deliberately forgets the word "defiance," obliterates all traces of the ancient dread, and brings a new word, "co-operation," into use as a definition of a new phase of Arctic research, charting and living. In obeying a code suggested by this word he has refuted what Peary had to say, and even made incorrect the claims of the Eskimo. For Stefansson had a new plan, one that if corroborated in practice would alter the whole grand-scheme of Arctic life. Other explorers had always planned to turn back before the food and fuel brought along with them had been exhausted. He planned to "go ahead without either, relying on the sea ice or on undiscovered and uninhabited lands to supply both indefinitely." Now note the naivete of the following: "This was where our plan branched off from those of previous explorers and where our men were dubious, or more than that. It was the striking out along a new path that I had to try to justify before I could expect any one to volunteer for the undertaking."

Here at last was a man who accepted gage of battle with the North on its own terms. He would abandon food and fuel, strike into the heart of the waste and find what he needed to keep life going, on the sea ice or on lands hitherto with never a footprint of man upon them. The very thought is enough to make the blood of this twentieth century tingle. Not yet are we a race of weaklings! The white man of a temperate zone proves himself bolder, more resourceful, better able to live in any latitude of the old earth, than his ancestors or his fellows of any other tribe, savage or barbarous. That sounds a bit like brag. If you care to prove it read history. Stefansson did it, and in the doing caused to evaporate several misty bugaboos and opened up a new field for the ardor and the enterprise of men—that is, for those who have in them the good grit of get-there and hold-to-it.

MONTANA BEATS THE POLE

A proper query at this point concerns the barrier of the Arctic that is pictured in the universal mind of those who haven't been there. Isn't the cold something terrible? One has awesome visions of thermometers that can't register low enough and men losing noses, ears, hands and feet, or lying out under the steely stars like icicles. Stefansson must have chuckled when he compared Montana winters with those at the north, to the discomfiture of the former. Neither place is exactly balmy in January, but Havre, Mont., has shown 68 degrees below zero, while we know "theoretically that it cannot ever get much colder than 60 degrees below at the North Pole, which lies in deep ocean." Therefore, northern Montana beats the pole by 8 degrees of frigidity. Stefansson had his little laugh when he wrote "So if you happen to be living in northern Montana and want to go polar exploring it would seem you might leave behind a few clothes." He found that it never is colder than 54 degrees below zero on the north coast of North America at sea level. What is called the "cold pole" of the Northern Hemisphere is not at the North Pole, but is believed to be on the continent of Asia north of Irkutsk, where the temperature is said at times to sink to 90 degrees below zero. Yet it is a settled country, "the inhabitants of which probably do not complain any more about the climate than do those of London or New York."

Now for a bigger surprise. Stefansson's statement of heat north of the Arctic Circle is amazing. We quote three sentences that upset all our traditions in this direction:

"I spent the summer of 1910 from fifty to seventy-five miles north of the Arctic Circle in Canada, northeast of Great Bear Lake, and for six weeks the temperature rose to the vicinity of 90 degrees in the shade nearly every day. Neither did it fall low at night, for in that region the sun does not set, and there is no respite through the cooling darkness. The sun beat down on us from a cloudless sky as it continued its monotonous circling, and all of my party agreed we had never in our experience suffered as much from cold as we suffered from heat that summer."

THE TERROR OF POLAR COLD

A pretty broad path of light is spread over the above described climatic conditions in what Stefansson says about the glacial regions of the Arctic. "There is one land in the north that is covered with glaciers, and from it all the rest of the north has been pictured by analogy." Greenland is ridged by high mountains. The precipitation there is so heavy that the heat of the summer does not succeed in thawing all the masses of winter snow. These heaps change into glacial ice that moves down the valleys to the sea, and then breaks off in icebergs. For years, during the high tide of the whale industry, men returned from the north with great tables of the huge floating ice cakes and bergs. The loss of the Titanic was an epilogue to the long story of decades, even centuries. And all the record was one that accentuated the terror of the ice and its logical background of intense, unyielding cold.

It happens, and this is a significant truth when we analyze the problem of winter life in the Arctic, that the glacial regions are few and limited. They exist in Franz Josef Land and Spitzbergen, in Ellesmere and Axel Heiberg Island, and to a small degree in Baffin Island. "But when you get west of that the great archipelago that stretches northward from Canada toward the pole is quite free of them, and so is all the Canadian mainland along the polar sea and southward to the Arctic Circle and beyond, except for some high valleys and peaks in the Rockies."

Glaciers suggest snow. We had imagined the northland to be one swathed in white the year round. Stefansson tells us that "the snowfall in the Canadian Arctic islands and on the north coast of Canada and Alaska is less than half, and in many places less than a quarter, of what it is, for instance, in Montreal or Petrograd or the hills back of Christiania. It is less than in Chicago, Warsaw, northeast Germany or the highlands of Scotland."

Sverdrup estimates the total annual snowfall of Ellesmere Island, the most northerly island yet found in the world, at about one-tenth of the Weather Bureau estimate for annual snowfall of St. Louis. So much for cold, heat, glaciers and snow!

A tabloid outline of what Stefansson accomplished would be about as follows: Remember the year of his first Canadian expedition was 1914, and that he kept at work in the polar sea for five years. At the outset he planned to traverse the Beaufort Sea, west of Banks and Prince Patrick Island, to the north of Alaska, a region described by Markham as "the polar ocean without life." And Markham's opinion was backed by the testimony of Nansen and Peary, which was "neither equivocal nor friendly" to Stefansson's hypothesis. Had not the latter said that when you start on an Arctic journey you must have enough food and fuel to supply you on your way out and on your return?

To clinch the argument for the opposition no Eskimo in northern Alaska was willing to go with Stefansson. His plan had all the earmarks of a foolish adventure, a daredevil challenge hurled into the face of the implacable north. Yet Stefansson went forth, not once but many times, trekking all over the shores and seas to the north of Alaska and Canada, much of the time well beyond the line of 75 degrees north. He everywhere found animal life extraordinarily abundant along the edges of the ice-covered area. Seals must feed to live, and they are able to subsist on the marine life they encounter as far north as Stefansson went. And Stefansson knew more about the habits of seals and the proper Eskimo methods of hunting them than did his predecessors among explorers. He never had any serious trouble in stocking his expedition with seal meat and blubber. He tells us that a seal weighing 200 pounds will yield about 80 pounds of meat and bones, 20 or 30 pounds of waste and nearly 100 pounds of blubber. "When you have killed enough seals to furnish you with the lean meat needed for men and dogs, and when the men and dogs have eaten all the seal's fat they care for, there will be left blubber for fuel to be used extravagantly."

The Pneumonia Month.

March is a typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ ladened mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly.

The Placid Little Lake Of Love

BY JEAN BERTHEROY

Translated by William L. McPherson

Gérard Dusseuil had passed the age of Easter eggs—that charming surprise of which big and little children dream as Pandora dreamed before her marvelous box with its unknown contents. For in every human being there is a child still curious, and all life is a surprise, a marvel, which never ceases to challenge the senses.

Gerard had just finished his classical studies and was preparing to enter a professional school. On Holy Thursday his father had given him some money and a round-trip ticket to Belgium.

"You have a ten-days' vacation," he said. "Use it to travel a little. Later on you may not have the time."

The Northern station, early that morning, was crowded with passengers. He entered a compartment in which three persons were already seated. Opposite him a young girl—or perhaps a very young married woman—was reading a book, her veil lowered over her face. She hadn't waited until the train started to open the volume, whose title Gerard tried to decipher, as if that detail might throw some light on her personality. Then, thinking this rather ridiculous on his part, he opened a newspaper and read it intently. But from time to time he looked up. He would have been glad if his eyes had met those of the traveler whom a favoring chance had placed across from him—for his vis-a-vis might have been the corpulent lady who sat at his left or the old gentleman in the far corner who slept on placidly without any thought for the rest of them. But no! Fortune had put there a traveling companion as young as himself and probably, like himself, completely ignorant of the contents of the marvelous box in which the gods had locked the secrets of destiny.

The train rolled on across the desolated plains. Presently there was a jolt which made the stout lady gasp, awakened the old gentleman and distracted the young woman from her reading. Then Gerard's eyes met hers, which were of a deep, velvety, mysterious blue, like that of the sky at night. He didn't dare to look at her very long. Moreover his curiosity was satisfied. He retained in his mind the reflection of that pure face, a little melancholy and of a beauty still unperfected. He could contemplate her at his leisure in that inner mirror in which the images which have especially charmed us remain fixed.

He wasn't in a hurry to leave the train. The next station was the one at which he was to get out. His itinerary had been planned in advance. He had believed himself free. He was not. Such was his second discovery, following quickly on that of the two eyes of deepest blue, bathed in the light of the infinite.

Gerard was to spend Easter Sunday in Bruges. He awoke in his hotel and contemplated the delicate landscape, with its soft shadows, in which had slumbered for centuries the famous convent of the secular nuns, with its Lake of Love. Was it this peaceful atmosphere or his feeling of loneliness which affected him so peculiarly today?

He dressed slowly and went downstairs. All the people must have been in church, for the streets were deserted. He longed to see a human face. Was Bruges really dead, completely dead, retaining from the past only its monuments of stone? But, no! Suddenly the Easter chimes began to ring. It was a music so clear, so gay, so persuasive, that the spring morning seemed to tremble with delight.

He walked toward the little Lake of Love. The grass grew thick in the sod surrounding it, so thick that his footsteps left no traces. He heard no earthly sound. He heard only the clear music floating over the city. He leaned on the rail of the bridge and looked at the colorless waters. He still felt the burden of his loneliness.

He was about to go back through the park when he saw coming toward him a feminine figure which set him in a tremble. The veil slightly lowered over the face, the tilt of the head, the color of the hair—all these seemed familiar. He had the audacity to greet this woman, whose name he didn't even know. She returned his greeting and their eyes met. Then he recognised the blue eyes, blue as the sky at night, whose image had lingered in his mind.

She entered the convent. He ventured to follow her. Nobody said him nay. In the interior court women were talking, young and old, their hands idle, because it was a holiday. The unknown was seated in their midst. All at once she noticed Gerard, who didn't dare to come any closer.

"Are you looking for somebody?" she asked.

"No," he stammered. "I thought that visitors were allowed here."

"The chapel is open. I will show you through it."

She walked alongside of him without appearing to be astonished at his presence. Had she recognised him? Evidently she had. When they left the sanctuary, where some candles were burning down to their sockets, she said, with a delicate smile:

"I don't see what attraction our retreat can have for strangers. Life here is so simple, so uniform. We always know the evening before what we are going to do on the morrow."

"Do you live here?" he asked, trying to steady his voice.

"Almost always. And when I go away I am eager to return."

Her smile became more subtle. It was that of the innumerable virgins whom Ursula leads in her train in the mystic theories of Van Eyck. He felt that between her and himself there was not only the difference of race, but of a long training in habits of thought which couldn't be the same. He bowed to her awkwardly and walked away.

Outside again, he turned to the little Lake of Love. The waters were still colorless and placid. He thought of the faces which had leaned over toward this tranquil surface, which the breath of spring hardly stirred. Doubtless none resembled another, and all must have brought there the same fugitive inquietude. Gerard began to comprehend the mystery of life and the eternal complexity of hearts. This interested him so passionately that he no longer felt the weight of his solitude. The potencies of imagination took possession of him and constrained him to consider things under a new aspect and in a more penetrating light.

And this was his marvelous Easter gift. A recluse with eyes as blue as the firmament had unknowingly revealed to him the deep secrets of love.
